Student Life

It's 'twist time' at BVHS.

FROM the first bell at 8:15 a.m. to the last sound of the bell at 3:38 p.m., students at Buena Vista High School in Saginaw, Michigan, are busy with academic classes, club and organization work and with what they call "foolin' around."

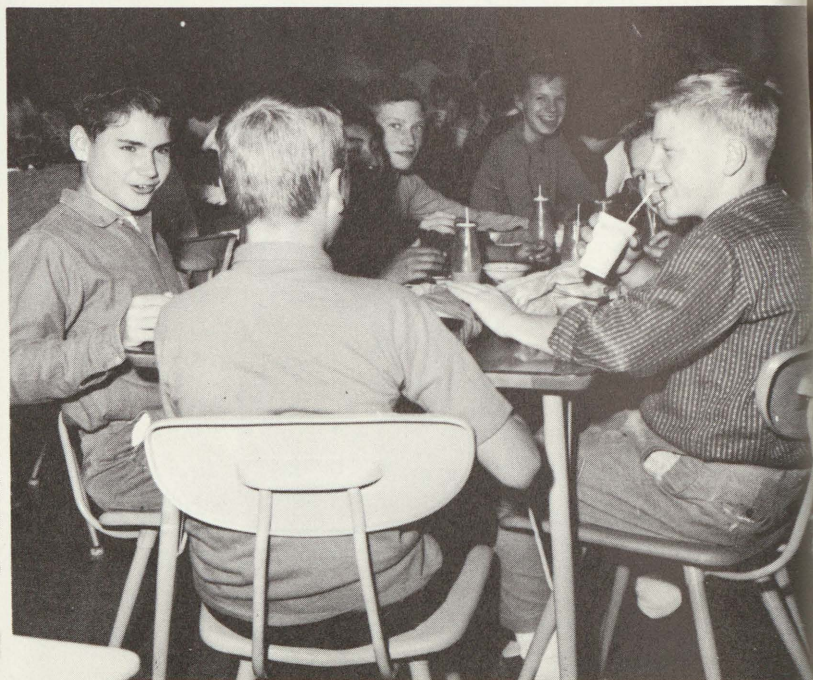

THE high school office runs through daily attendance procedures. The class rolls are called. Students eat their lunches in the cafeteria or play basketball in the gym during noon hours.

BVHS students work hard. They play hard. They relax with a vengeance.

Mr. Pelkki advises our students.

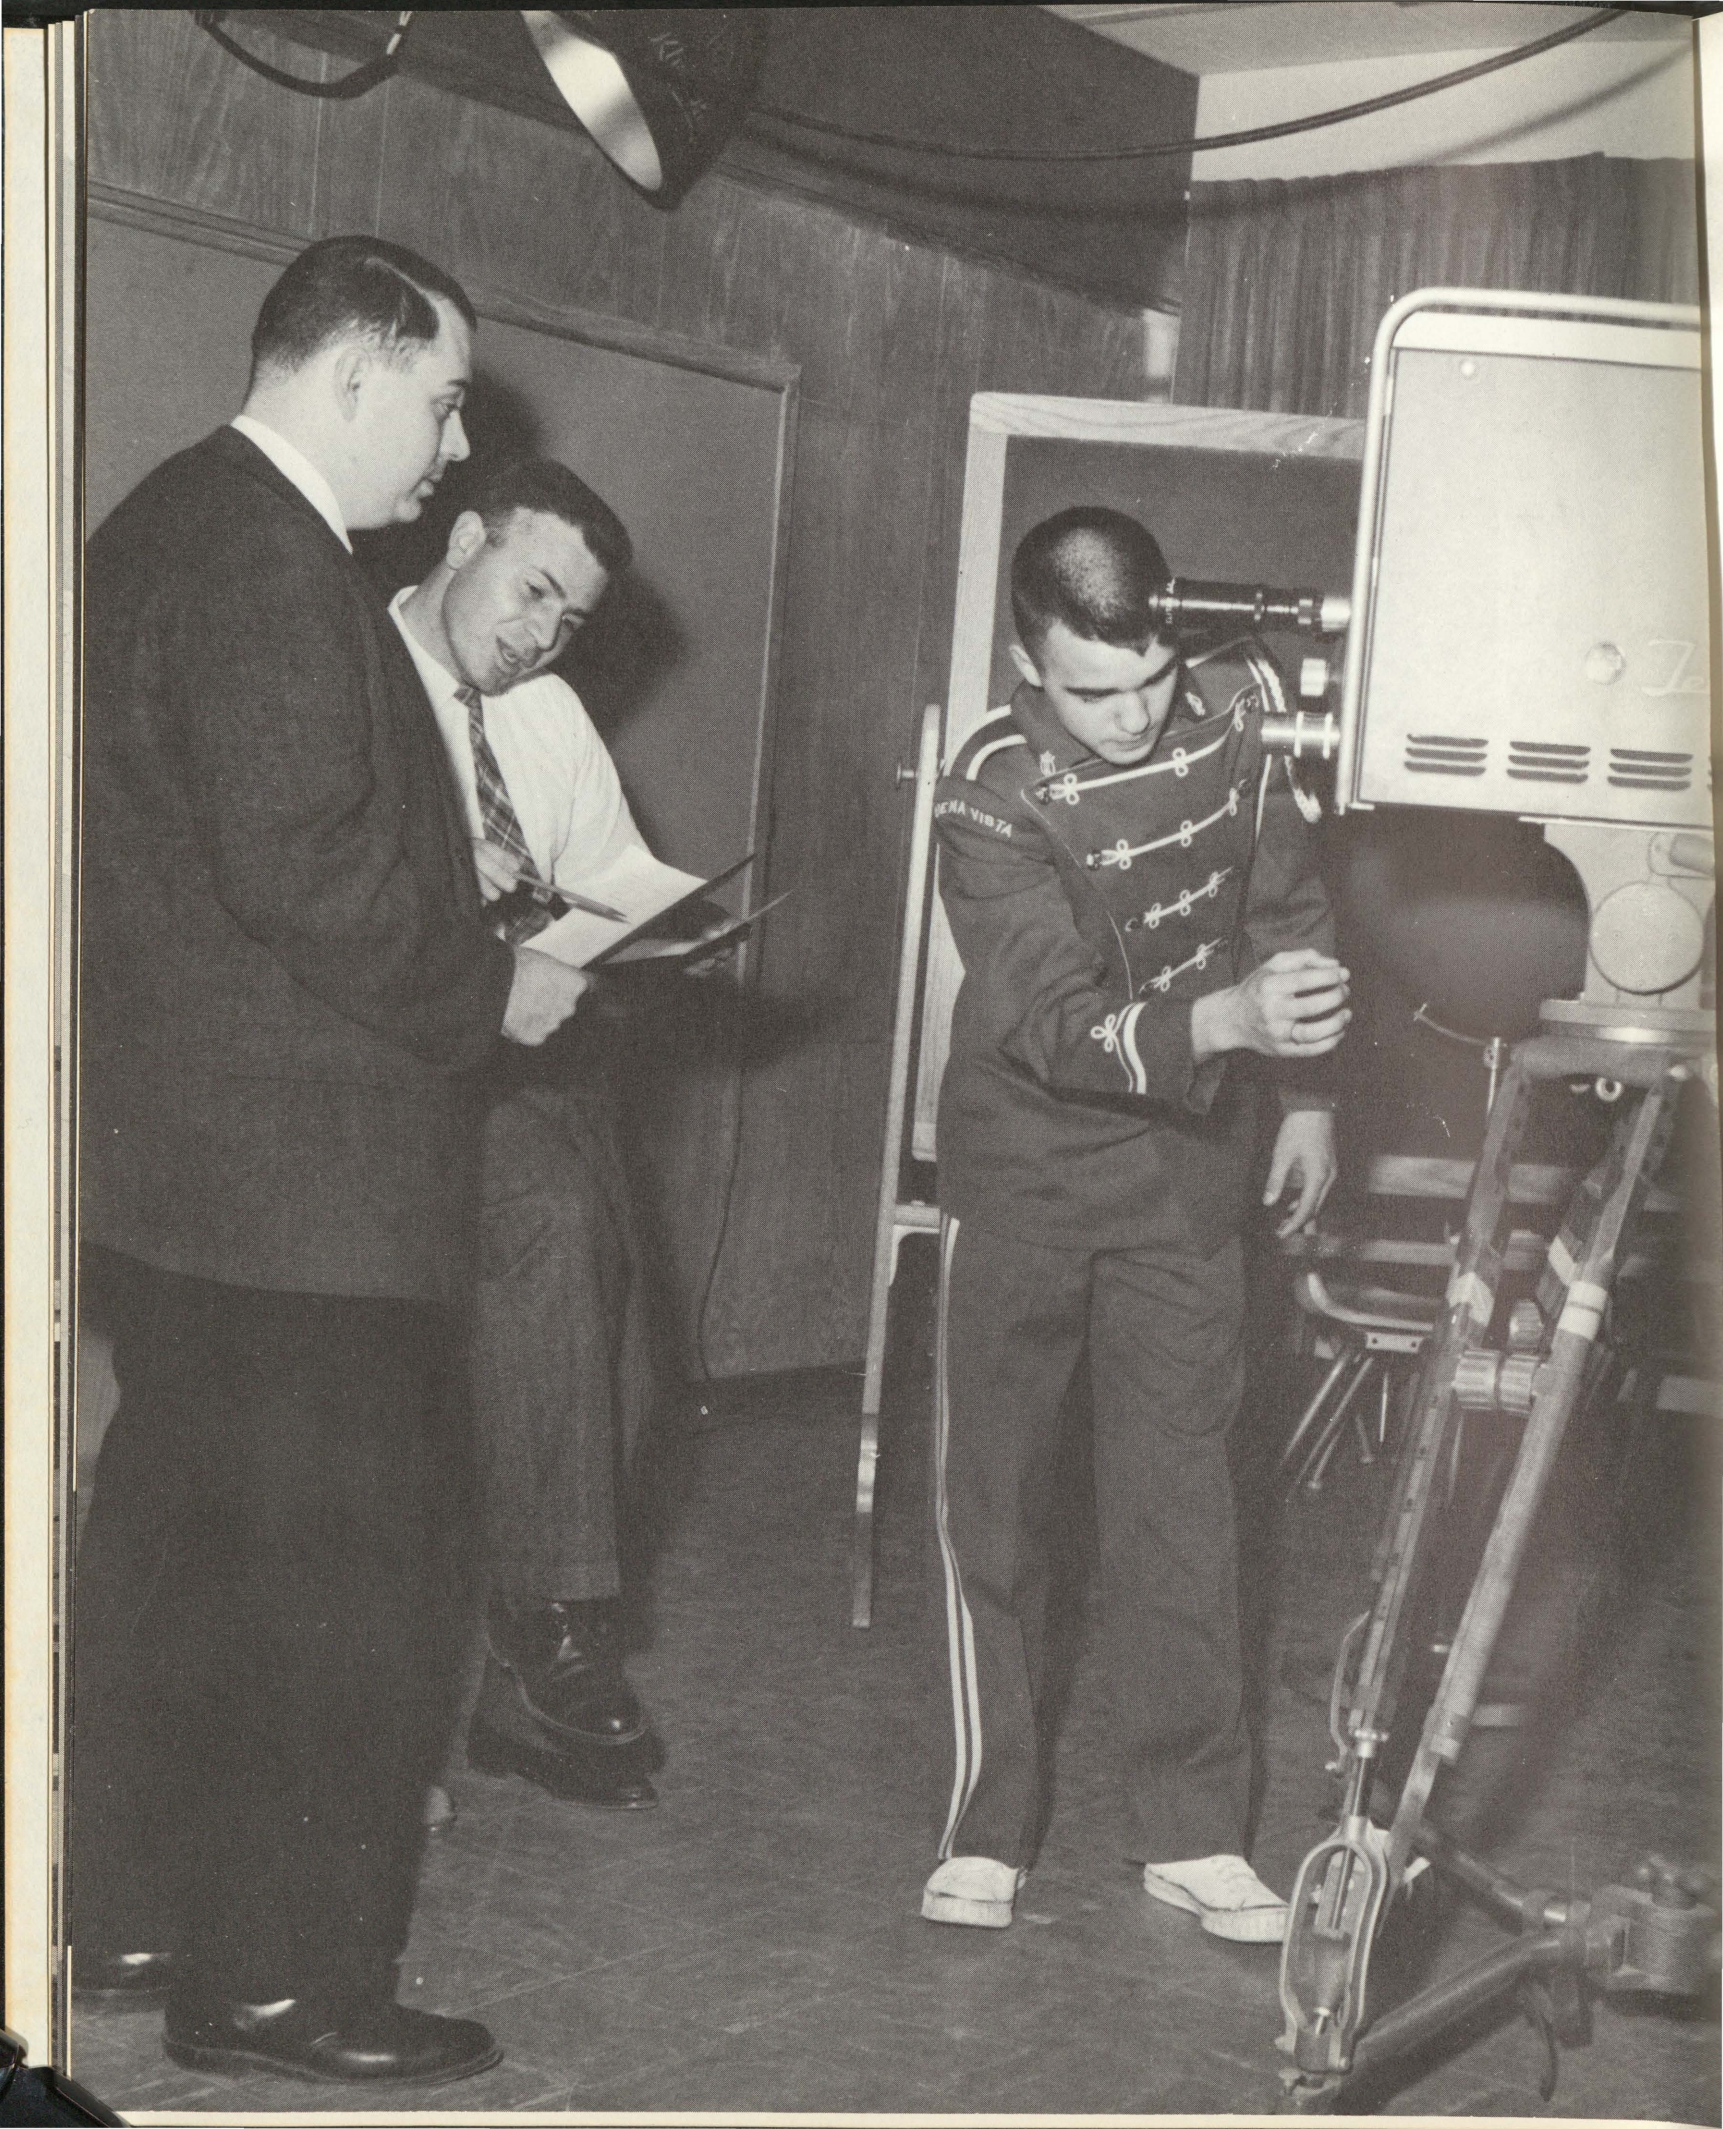

Lunch time is leisure time for the boys.

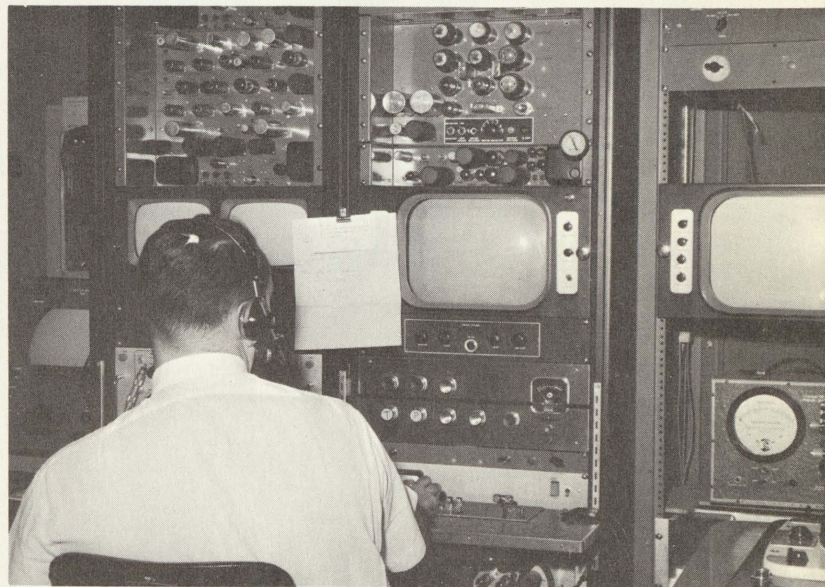

Mrs. Neal, commercial teacher, instructs students during a speed typing test.

Television cameraman Tim Perry focuses in on Mrs. DeMol during an English telecast.

Kenneth Wuepper controls telecast quality and visual classroom reception through his control board.

It's a close-up shot of Mrs. DeMol as she demonstrates how to study for an English examination.

Mr. Wuepper, television co-ordinator, and Mr. Surian, Latin and English teacher, confer about telecast preparations.

Alice Poplewski and Carlene Bucholz practice their typing skills.

Adding machines and calculators are just a part of the equipment available for training future office personnel.

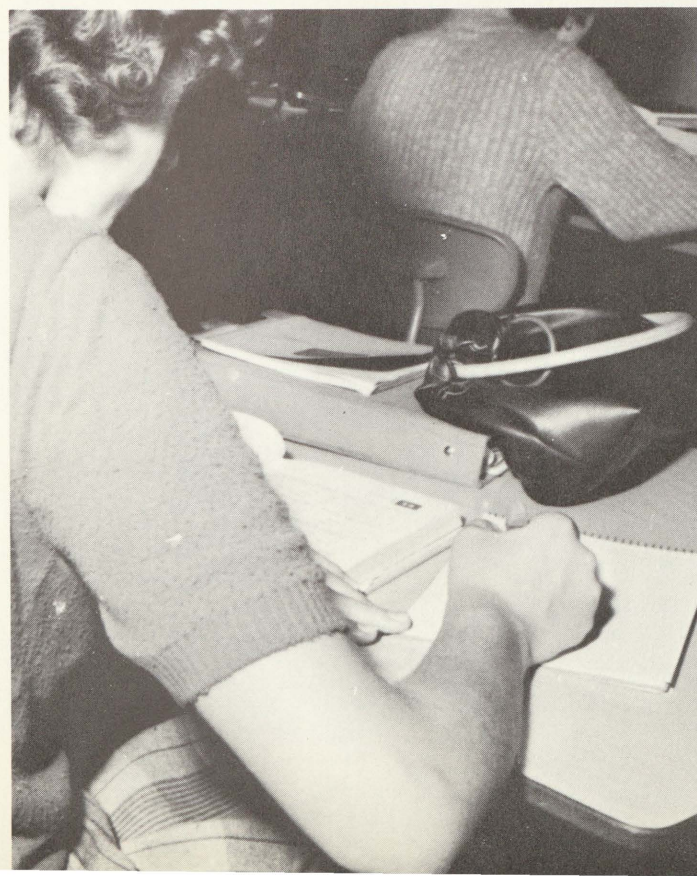

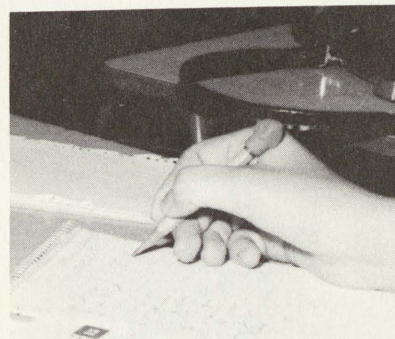

They Prepare Us For The Future . . .

COMMERCIAL SUBJECTS are important for those students who plan to enter the business world. They are important, too, for the students who may wish to work their way through college.

MRS. NEAL, Mrs. McMullin and Mr. Wartenberg teach these subjects at Buena Vista. Courses include typing, shorthand, book-keeping and business machines.

THROUGH machine research and technology, the most up-to-date equipment, presented to and approved for classroom use by the administration, is available in the commercial rooms. We have electric and manual typewriters, adding machines and calculators.

FROM these three teachers and their classrooms come the future businessmen and women.

Shorthand is a writing skill learned only through continuous practice.

"A stitch in time, saves nine," so the saying goes. Girls in home economics classes learn the truth of this saying.

Capable hands pin the pattern to the material before cutting it out.

Can't you smell this cherry pie as it comes out of one of the ovens in the home economics room?

Welding takes a steady hand and cool nerves.

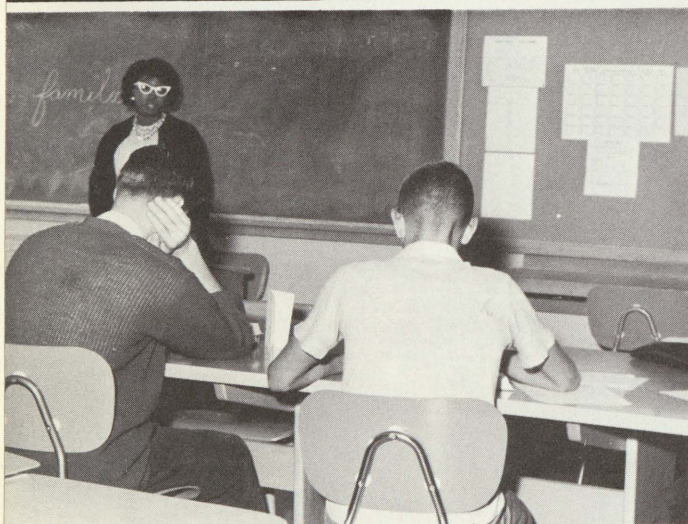

Marty Hain, Ken Haggerty and Bob Schulz prepare their drawing assignments for Mr. Vargarson, shop teacher.

Mr. Hale molds pottery as three art students prepare to use the wheel.

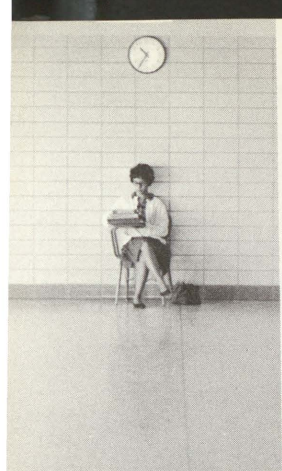

Library research keeps many students occupied during their study halls and lunch periods.

Learning to speak the 'Spanish' way is the job of every student in Miss Veal's Spanish class.

Maurice Henne, 1962 Buena Vista graduate, returns to discuss career plans with guidance counselor, Mr. Pelkki.

A hall monitor studies on the job.

It's exercise time in Mrs. Bell's gym class.

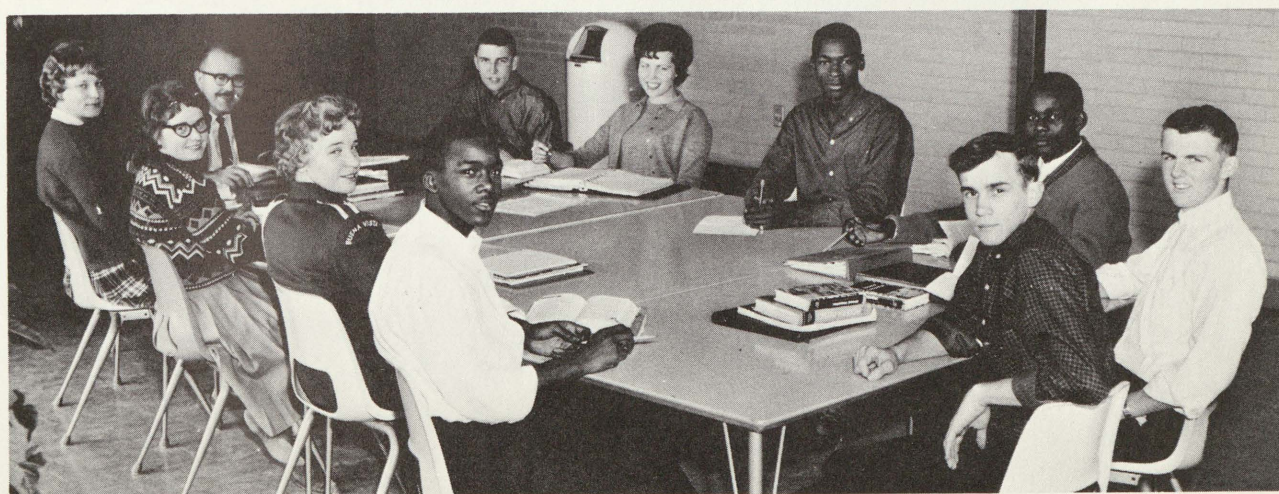

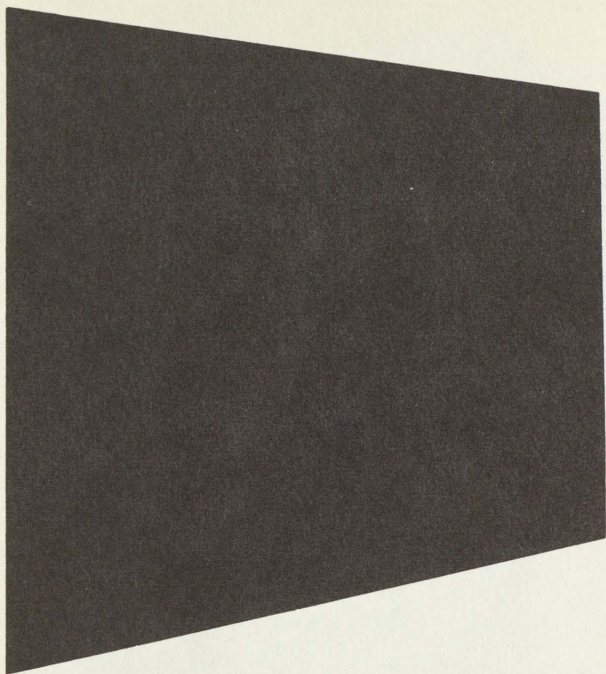

Mr. Maxwell leads discussion periods in sociology class.

"A good try," is the result of a long stretch during volleyball play in gym.

English composition takes discussion, writing ability and time—so say students of Mr. Tuck.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

IT'S A LONG WAY from the drawing board to the finished product. A YEARBOOK is built in the same way that a building takes shape. There are plans to be made, drawings to draft, people to contact and relations to cement with good will.

AS YOU READ this page, you have more than completed one half of the 1963 "VISTA VISIONS."

WE, AS A STAFF, have chosen the photographs, written the copy and cutlines with the idea of bringing school memories to you with clarity.

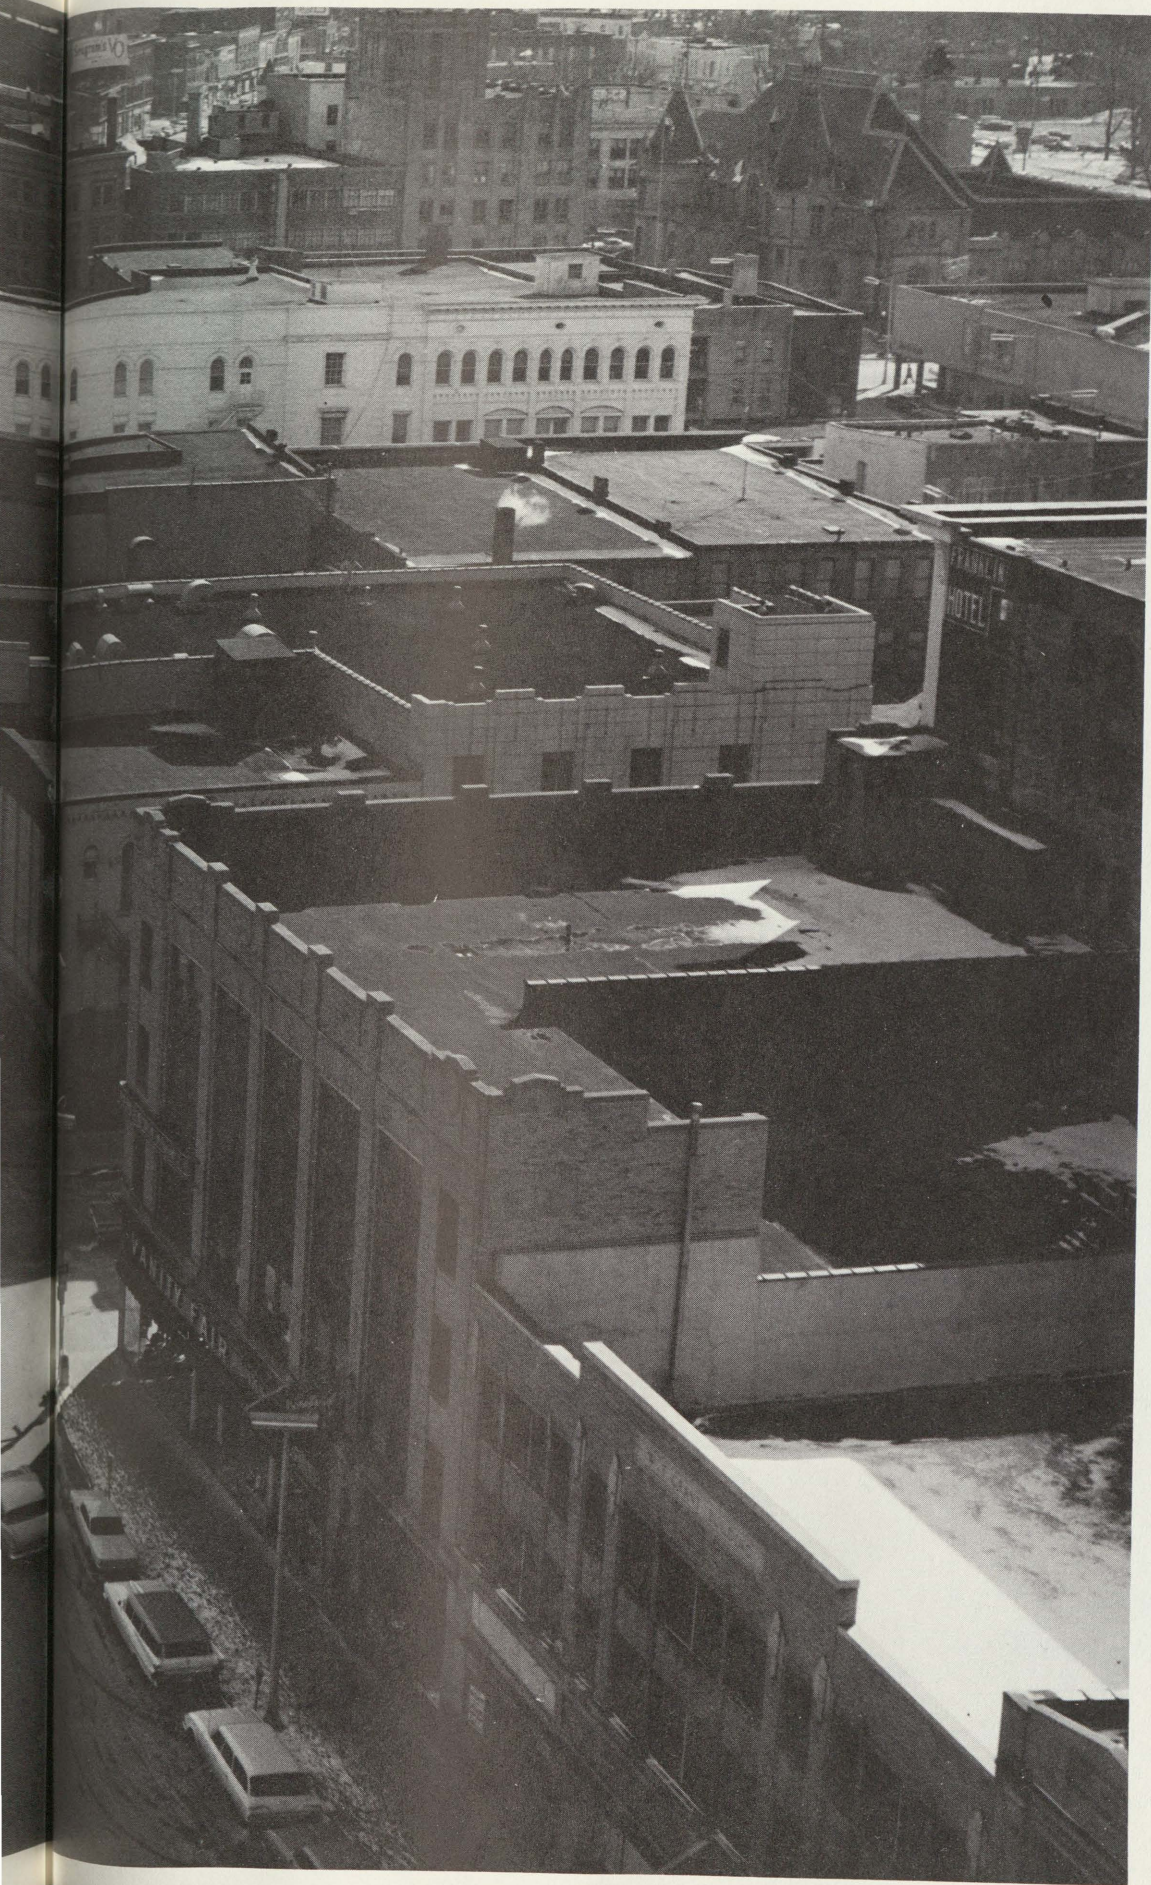

JOHN SKULLEY, sports editor, with Harvey Newman and Ray Averill, covered physical education activities. Laura Betzold, student body and faculty editor, talked Vicki Higgins and Linda Eichenberger into working hard and fast as pictures came back from the studios. Marcia Welch, advertising manager, stepped in where others had failed. Pat Arndt acted as assistant editor and layout manager, contributing talents we needed and appreciated.

YET THE STAFF couldn't have done this book alone. The central office staff, Mr. Blue, Mr. Blenkhorn, Werkema Studio and all of the students of Buena Vista High School contributed through their co-operation. Our teachers were bothered to the point of distraction at times, yet they, too, offered their help and understanding.

WE OFFER the 1963 "VISTA VISIONS" as our thanks to all of our readers. We hope it maintains the high traditions of Buena Vista High School.
